

Back to the office? Still working from home? Or a bit of both?

Wherever you may be, it's always better to be using technology that you can trust!

There is never a good time for your tech to fail you, but it can be particularly agonising if you need to move around and work in different locations.

Being able to save your work safely and securely is one thing you need to guarantee, whether it is putting a presentation on a USB drive or backing up or archiving documents for the long term.

Verbatim's range of storage and accessory products give you peace of mind that your equipment will be there for you when you need it most!

Store, save and back-up

Store your day to day office files on our range of USBs. If you need something with a higher capacity (or speed) our portable hard drives and SSDs are an ideal solution to keep your files backed-up. Plus, they are easy to carry around from your home office to your workplace.

Data safety and security

If you are handling work data outside the office, you should be using encrypted solutions to be compliant and secure. Our premium AES 256-bit encrypted solutions will ensure your data is safe and secure from getting into the wrong hands. By saving and archiving your data offline, you can be protected from the dangers of ransomware software that could attack your network. Optical discs continue to be the best format for storing important files off-line for the long term.
